The place where important decisions are made

For both smaller businesses and larger, multinational companies, one of the foundations for a successful future is good decision-making, involving the managers of the different units of the company. So management meetings are extremely important. It is a meeting in which the company's managers can consult each other on the substance, discuss different issues and find common ground. It is a meeting in which the company's managers can consult with each other substantially, discuss different issues and find common ground. This is typically held in the meeting room of the office, but to allow for more active dialogue and constructive results, it is recommended to use external venues for decision-making meetings. In addition to the environment, it is also important to increase the participants' sense of comfort, which can be easily achieved with a multi-course breakfast.

In this context, we recommend our Brunch Breakfast in the elegant Gundel Restaurant, with more than 125 years of history and tradition!

Our program starts at 8 am, and its first part will include a lavish breakfast for the participants (as an example : mangalica sausage, wind-dried ham, whipped eggs with fresh lecsó, Hungarian cheeses with dried fruit, Gundel sweet and savoury pastry selection, freshly pressed vegetable and fruit juices and much more) and then we will provide space for the discussion of company topics in a separate room for private use.

Optionally, we can also provide a business moderator for the event, who can even professionally moderate even the more sensitive topics!
